TOBACCO MEN SUED.

Petition Asking $15,300 Is Filed In U. S. Circuit Court at Covington.

A sensational suit for damages was filed in the United States Court at Covington last week against some of the most prominent men in Bracken county, the scene of violent night rider for less. The suit is brought by W. S. Henderson, a former resident of Augusta, Bracken county, but now in Cincinnati. There are 18 defendants.

Henderson's petition asks for $15,300 damages and sets forth that on December 30, 1907, he bought of Lewis Kinney and Daniel Shepard 7,000 pounds of tobacco. He alleges that the defendants, on the day that the tobacco was to be delivered at his place of business in Augusta, came to him armed and with threats of bodily harm and even death, forced him to cancel the contract he had made with Kinney and Shepard.

He further alleges that they conspired to break up his business and that the defendants came to him armed and forced him to sign a contract to cease buying tobacco in Kentucky or anywhere else.

These actions on the part of the defendants, he alleges, forced him to abandon his business and residence in Kentucky, which he claims damaged him to the extent of $8,000. By forcing him to quit buying tobacco in Kentucky he claims he was damaged to the extent of $10,000, and that he lost $300 when he was forced to cancel the contract with Kinney and Shepard.

Birds Also Dying From Drinking Elkhorn's Whisky-Poisoned Waters.

Reports continue to come in of the damage done by the big whisky flood, which came down Elkhorn creek when the Greenbaum distillery was burned at Midway, and 47,000 barrels of bottled in bond goods ran into the creek. In addition to killing all of the fish in the stream that did not fly before the fiery flood to the safety of the river, ducks, geese and, many wild birds which drank the water have died.

We have four rooms in Calk building on Maysville street for rent. 3tf Mrs. Drusie Sled.

To Run Trains By Telephone.

Linemen for the Cumberland Telephone Company have completed the work of stringing wires from Louisville to Memphis along the Illinois Central, and the railroad will proceed to install apparatus for handling trains by telephone. Wherever practicable operators and dispatchers have been dispensed with at small stations.

Had Lost Hope.

L. G. Bottkins, Paris, Ky., says: "I had no hopes of saving my hogs, as some of them could not eat. I drenched them with 'Ou'bun Hog' Cholera Remedy and did not lose a hog." Sold by W. S. Lloyd.

Receiver for Central Home Telephone Co.

J. D. Powers, of Louisville, has been appointed receiver for the Central Home Telephone Company, Louisville, Ky., by Judge Cochran of the United States District Court at Maysville, upon the application of Judge Lassing, of Boone county, a bondholder and creditor of the company.

CHURCH CHAINED IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Cardinal Gibbons Says Absolute Separation In America Conduces to Religious Advance-ment.

The recent visit of Cardinal Gibbons has made an extraordinary impression upon Rome, and the common topic of conversation among Cardinals, prelates and churchmen of all degrees is one notable utterance, in which he compared American with European conditions of Catholicity before the detriment of the latter.

Cardinal Gibbons ascribes most of the human drawbacks of Catholicity in Europe to the union of the church and State, and most of the blessings of the church in America to the separation of the two powers.

He declared he would not touch on the theory of the union, but asserts that the union which now exists between the church and State in most European countries is like a chain on the feet of the church, while in America the Government although formally separated from the church and the churches, is always willing to recognize the interests of religion and show its respect for religious principles.

"The American people," the Cardinal said, "consider religion as the basis of social morality and prosperity, hence it respects every organization that tends to keep these alive in public and private life."

To Test Legality of Bill.

Suit will be instituted against State Auditor F. P. James and the State of Kentucky within the next few days to enforce the payment of the $300,000 appropriation for the State University and two State Normal schools at Richmond and Bowling Green. Such is decision reached by representatives of the schools.

WOULD NOT PAY

Brings Suit Against Man Who Attempted to Collect His Bill.

In New York Mrs. Howard Gould brought suit for $50,000 against Frank A. McLaughlin. Failing to collect a bill for various articles he made for her, Mr. McLaughlin began suit to recover the amount.

A process server attempted to serve the summons on Mrs. Gould. Mrs. Gould alleges that he maliciously and cruelly insulted her as a result of which she says she sustained a severe nervous shock.

That's too bad.

YOUNG WAR VETERAN

Has Developed Leprosy--A Week In Washington Before He Knew What Ailed Him.

There is leprosy in the District of Columbia. The plague victim is a young veteran of the Spanish war.

His name is John R. Early, 35 years old, whose home is in Lynn, N. C., where he has a wife and child. He came to Washington a few days ago, hoping to get a pension as an ex-soldier. He was now confined in a tent heavily guarded. When Early arrived in Washington he was taken sick on Friday afternoon. A physician was sent for.

One look at the unhappy man and the doctor cried, "You are a leper." The lumpy forehead, knotted in places under the skin; blotches of whitening flesh; a stiffness of the joints. The physician at once notified the Health Department and the man was immediately removed.

When seen Sunday afternoon the leper sat in front of his tent head bowed, eyes bent on the small book held in his swollen hands. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death." His lips moved to the words. He was reading the twenty-third Psalm.

Courteous he sat, with crossed knees. Upon the approach of the physician the leper folded his New Testament.

In his face, lean, browned by the bronze tarnish of the tropics, there was nothing to revolt, nothing repulsive—until the eyes rested on his forehead.

There the unclean shield of the oldest plague in the world spread itself from temple to temple unflinchingly.

The leper touched it with his big fingers. "I know.

The seat of death is there. I am obliged to you for coming to see me. I know now that I am condemned man—that the only question between me and eternity is "How far are we apart from each other?" I am resigned. I suppose if I were not a Christian, if I did not have God with me, I would sustain and comfort me, I would go insane, but I will not go insane. I can even be cheerful. I have a certain length of life left to me, and those who see me will not find me weeping.

"My unhappiness," he said, "is not for myself. I have a dear wife and little boy. He is only 7 months old."

During the progress of the Spanish-American War, Early was a private and saw duty in both Cuba and the Philippines. He is supposed to have contracted his dread disease in the Philippines, although he does not remember having come in contact with any leper. He served nine years in the regular army.

The district officials are endeavoring to make arrangements to have North Carolina care for him.

By the decision of Judge Thompson in the United States Court the Government wins in the contest it has been waging with the Cincinnati distillers in order to compel them to brand as "imitation whisky" the rapid process production which has for years been on the market under the name of whisky.

Snow in Baltimore.

There was a light fall of snow in the suburbs of Baltimore, Md., Wednesday night and duries are reported from other points in Maryland.

Unitarian Faith.

It was not our purpose last week to stir those possessing both biliary political and religious temperaments. Our purpose was to set some facts before our readers, which they, as Republicans or Democrats, have a right to know and since some plagiaristic garblers have viciously assailed us, we arise to a point of personal privilege under the God-given and inherent law of self-defense.

In Webster's unbridged dictionary we find "Unitarian" defined as follows:

"One who denies the doctrine of the trinity and ascribes divinity to God the Father only."

Now it doesn't take much of a logician to see how the Unitarians look upon Christ. The doctrine of the trinity—the Father, Son and Holy Ghost—is denied, and divinity being ascribed to the Father alone, of course cuts Christ and the Holy Ghost out of their creed.

The Unitarians acknowledge Christ as a kind of religious leader, but not possessing any supernatural power. They deny that he performed the miracles recorded in the New Testament.

The American Unitarian Association of Boston, publishes a booklet written by Rev. E. E. Hale, one of their ablest preachers, in which he sets forth his articles of faith as follows:

"The Fatherhood of God, The Brotherhood of Man, The Leadership of Jesus, Salvation by Character, The Progress of Mankind, onward and upward forever."

These articles of faith are all right for a church that believes in "Salvation by Character" and not by the atonement made on Calvary's Cross.

Rev. J. T. Sunderland another noted Unitarian preacher of the East, in a pamphlet issued by the same Association and entitled, "Is the Bible Infallible?" says:

"It requires only a very slight examination of the way in which the Bible came into existence and of the manner in which it has come down to us, to see that any claim of infallibility for it can be only words without meaning."

On page 23 of the pamphlet, Mr. Sunderland hits the Bible a hard lick. He says:

"There is no use trying to evade it; the Bible contains errors of many kinds. It contains incredible stories, as for example those of the talking serpent, the speaking ass, and Jonah living three days in the fish."

If this fish story is false, then why had Jesus fooled, for in Matthew 12:40, He says: "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the whale's belly, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth."

What a pity that some good Unitarian brother or some of Pikeville's learned defenders of the faith, were not present to set Jesus right in this matter.

Mr. Sunderland doesn't take much stock in prophecy, for on page 29 of his book he says:

"There are predictions in the Bible that have never come to pass and some which in the nature of the case, can never come to pass."

But this is not the worst of it. This good brother, one of the leading lights of Unitarianism, after denying both history and prophecy in the Old Bible and discrediting Jesus Christ, again dips his pen in ink as black as stygian midnight and at one swoop wipes the Old Bible and New Testament from their creed.

"The simple truth is there are two Bibles. One is the old and outgrown Bible of tradition, cruelty and ignorance. The other is the new, fresh living, imperishable Bible of inquiry, scholarship and intelligence."

Now, the above is Unitarianism, pure and simple, from Unitarian sources which are authentic and recognized by the governing au-

ROBBER.

Victims Compelled to Place Their Valuables on the Ground And Then Depart at Full Speed.

In true Western style a lone highwayman Tuesday, August 21, held up the Cody-Meeteetsee stage coach at the point of a rifle, forced the passengers and the driver to stand in a row before him, and then to deposit their valuables on the ground.

After their departure the robber gathered up his booty and struck off. He secured about $2,000 in cash and considerable jewelry.

It is believed that the highwayman is the person who on Monday held up and robbed 16 stage coaches in the Yellowstone Park.

That is What They Say About Them in Mt. Sterling, and It is Therefore, Reliable.

Another proof, more evidence, Mt. Sterling testimony to swell the long list of local people who endorse the old Quaker remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this convincing endorsement of that remarkable preparation:

Mrs. J. P. Nelson, living at 34 Richmond Ave., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I can certainly give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement as they have proven of great benefit to me. My back nearly drove me wild on account of the constant aching. I felt tired and worn out and the least thing would worry me. I also suffered from nervous headaches and was in a miserable condition. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at F. C. Duerson's drug store, I feel like a different woman and take them whenever I feel a slight return of the trouble, and they never fail to give me prompt relief."

monwealth Attorney in the Twenty-first Judicial District, composed of the counties of Montgomery, Bath, Rowan and Menefee, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

ALICE CONNER,

of Owingsville, as a candidate for Commonwealth Attorney in the Twenty-first
Judicial District, composed of the counties of Montgomery, Bath, Rowan and Menefee, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR COUNTY COURT CLERK.

We are authorized to announce

JOHN F. KING

as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of the Montgomery Court.

FOR JAILER.

We are authorized to announce

W. R. TIPTON

as a candidate for Jailer of Montgomery
County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

WILL V. HEDDEN

as a candidate for Jailer of Montgomery
County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR ASSESSOR.

We are authorized to announce

RANDALL S. STOKLEY

as a candidate for Assessor of Montgom-erry County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

W. M. GOODWIN

as a candidate for re-election as Superintendent of Schools of Montgomery County,
subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

We are authorized to announce

PROF. M. J. GOODWIN

as a candidate for re-election as Superintendent of Schools of Montgomery County,
subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Adaptability to, qualification and moral fitness for, an office are essentials which should not be overlooked in the choosing of candidates. Anybody can draw the salary.

We are not to dictate when announcements are to be made. Our opinion has been expressed. If the candidates are to be nominated because of individual merit we see no reason for hasty action.

WILL F. HENRY.

As indicated in another column, Will F. Henry, of Aaron's Run neighborhood, aspires to the office of Jailer. The position is not an enviable one, as that officer must of necessity come in contact with the lawless, disreputable, dangerous element, native or transient. Our sympathy goes out to men who hold the office of Jailer. They "take their life in their own hands" for the protection of the public. They should be courageous, cool, sober, discreet, especially because of the element they have to deal with. Recognizing what he has to meet, Mr. Henry asks the Democrats to give him the nomination.

W. R. TIPTON.

This young man solicits the support of the voters of Montgomery county. He wants to be Jailer. He comes not as one unacquainted with the responsibilities, labors and dangers there. Sad memories cluster around the office, for his father, while Jailer, met his death at the hands of an outlaw. Moreover he has served as deputy Jailer for one year, and knows how and what to do. He promises to be faithful and efficient service.

W. M. CRAVENS.

Wm. Cravens, the auctioneer, asks the people to nominate him for Assessor. This is an important office as it has much to do with values and the finance of the county. He has had much experience in sales and ought to know what land and live stock is worth.

A candidate, whose "A Card" appears in this issue, intimates that the turnpike situation in this county has been at some time unsavory. We think so, too, judging from what has been printed and talked.

We insert under heading "Unitarian Faith," an article from San Cassity's paper, the Pikeville Plaindealer. To what extent Secretary Taft's religious views will effect his presidential race remains to be seen.

The many accidents reported show the need of care or thoughtfulness. It is dangerous to pull a gun against the hammer, or to speed an automobile, or to take medicine in the dark.

WILL FIND OUT.

By waiting people can find out when and how the Democrats of this county will nominate candidates for county offices.

"Is it right?" should be considered in deciding the questions great and small in our daily lives.

A Card.

I am a candidate for Justice of the Peace in Magisterial District No. 5, composed of Howard's Mill and Johnson precincts, subject to the action of the Democratic party. In view of the controversies in the past between certain persons and actions as to road supervisor, I think it proper to state that I am nominated and elected I will support for that place some person not heretofore connected with said contestants or factions. Your support is desired.

COLLISION.

Motorman Has Leg Cut Off Below the Knee—Conductor Sullivan Has Skall Fractured.

A head-on collision between an interurban car and a freight train took place in Lexington about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and three persons were badly injured. The injured are: Motorman Liston Miller, leg cut off below the knee, wrist fractured, cut about head and injured internally; may die; Conductor Leonard Sullivan, back of skull injured, sprained back; Madison Taylor, colored, sprained back and shoulder.

A freight dinky had for some unknown reason been left standing on the main track.

As the lights on the freight car had been extinguished it was impossible for Motorman Miller to see the car, as he was blinded by the arc light in front of him.

We Welcome Her to Our City

Miss Nellie W. Shearin, an A. B. graduate, of Caldwell college, June, 1900, has been employed as a teacher in Mt. Sterling Collegiate Institute, and will begin her work Tuesday, September 8.

Miss Shearin is a teacher of several years' experience and comes to this institution with the best recommendations and testimonials from both teachers and patrons.

J. C. Ely, President of Caldwell College, says of her: "A graduate with highest honors of our college, well qualified to teach anything she undertakes, of fine personal appearance, excellent mind, and has the teaching ability. She is thorough, painstaking and careful, kind, yet firm."

H. A. Hayes, President of Reidville Seminary, N. C., where she has been teaching, says of her: "A woman of high personal character and professional ability; one of the strongest teachers I know; has enjoyed and improved excellent opportunities for academic and professional training; knows how to manage and how to teach; and does both with marked success; her pupils love her, obey her, and work for her."

C. C. Patrick.

STATE SENATOR

Threatened With Criminal Prosecution--Money and Goods Under False Pretenses.

State Senator W. W. Tabb, of Nolin, Hardin county, is missing and if he is apprehended criminal proceedings may be instituted against him on a charge of obtaining money and goods by false pretenses.

It is alleged that Senator Tabb, who is a builder, represented to commercial agencies that he was worth $10,000 and thereby secured credit for a large amount from the Southern Lumber merchants.

Senator Tabb served a term in the House of Representatives previous to his election to the State Senate.

Sale of Farm.

As executors of H. T. Cord, deceased, we will offer for sale on October 1, 1908, if not sold privately before that date, his farm in Fleming county, three miles east of Helena Station, convenient to stores, schools and churches. The farm contains 1774 acres, well watered, well fenced, under excellent state of cultivation, all in blue grass except 16 acres now in corn and 30 acres recently in wheat. There are two good residences with all necessary outbuildings, cribs, stables, barns and never failing water. It can be sold in two parts of about equal acreage, with a residence, barn and never failing water on each part, or it can be sold as a whole. Persons interested may apply to James C. Cord at the farm or Wm. H. Cord, Mt. Cord, St. Louis.

CHANGING FASHIONS FOR MEN. When Use of Powder and of Snuff Boxes Died Out.

The French revolution had its effect upon men's fashions, too, and upon matters of more weight. Import, the tendency being greatly to simplify costumes, says the English Illustrated Magazine. Young men in England adopted the shorter coat, light trousers, and the sailor's cap, imported from Paris by a certain set who affected to desire the old court fashions.

The use of powder, made more expensive by taxation, quite died out and though still used, is not popular.

Trimmers and Wellington boots, a boot worn only by the military, were adopted by civilians about 1814, and the dandy of the early Victoria era wore his tightly strapped down. He wore a high collar, which was a favor under George IV., who bestrode black silk kerchief or stock.

The snuff box vanished and the characteristic ornament of the day was the watch chain.

Various evolutions took place from time to time during Queen Victoria's long reign, but the form of men's dress, practically remained unaltered.

The topboots and tweed suit of the country gentleman are of comparatively modern date, as well as the wide-awake and cloth cap.

RETOUR WITH A STING IN IT. Clergyman's Story of Reparate Between Grand Dames.

Rev. C. W. Gordon of Winona stated his brother clergymen at a recent convention by advocating the saving of souls "right off the bat." He said that souls worked upon slowly were apt "to hang on one's hands."

Atmosphere, Gordon continued, the honest and sincere way of the father with the false and venomous ways of certain circles of society. He illuminated the comparison with a dialogue.

"I overheard this dialogue," he said, "at a reception that I once attended in Washington. The speakers were two grande dames—I believe that it was the word—two powerful social leaders—one from Philadelphia, the other from New York."

"Well," said the first grande dame, "I must be off. I've got to go and see my mother."

"The second put up her logrette and drawled: "Well, you don't mean to say we've got a mother living."

"The first grande dame laughed—a high, thin laugh, with something biting like acid, in it."

"Oh, yes," she said; "my mother is still alive—and she doesn't look a day older than you do, I assure you."

MINERS LOSE LIVES.

Flames In Hoisting Shaft Cut Off the Air.

More than thirty miners were suffocated Wednesday morning in Hailey coal mine at Hudderville, east of McAlister, Okla., when fire destroyed the hoisting shaft and air shaft and cut off air from the mine below.

Twenty-five dead bodies were removed from the mine. It is believed that six or eight more will be brought out. Twenty-five miles were suffocated and some of their bodies were burned.

Explorations in the channels revealed that none of the men met death by burning, but that all of them were suffocated.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, W. F. Parker, mine owner, accidentally applied a torch to a barrel of oil and almost instantly an explosion followed which threw flames in every direction, and in a few seconds the mine was a seething furnace.

The property loss cannot be estimated at present, but may reach $10,000. The mine is one of the most valuable in the Southwest.

MADE THE PASSENGERS SMILE

Abstain-Minded Man Clings to Strap, Though Seats Were Vacant.

A lean passenger with a newspaper clutched around a cardigan who occupied as much space as is trying to think where he put the receipt for that bill that the man's dumbing him for over again.

He hitched himself up to a strap, turned his face to the side of his face and started to peruse the news of a busy and vexatious world without saying "action to nobody." He did not even look around.

And by and he had skinned through the papers chronicled in the paper and he shoved the sheet into his overcoat pocket.

Then he made a discovery. The discovery was as follows, viz: There were only eight other passengers on the car. Of course there were plenty of seats, but the man had sat on.

He looked sort of foolish when he noticed that everybody was smiling quietly about something. You see it looked funny to see a man wearily holding on to a strap when there were plenty of seats and at the same price as S. R. O. space.

"Shows what habbit do for a fellow," the lean preoccupied passenger muttered. "I'm used to getting on the car head along about six o'clock at night and I never look for seats."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ACTOR WAS BOWED WITH GRIEF.

But Not Altogether Because of the Death of His Wife.

A certain wellknown actor was curiously enough—very much attached to his wife. She died after a lingering illness, and the poor old Thespian was all alone up about it. One night a friend went to the actor's dressing room and found him in tears. He was making up, and having a hard time of it.

"Excuse me, old chap," he muttered, brokenly. "This is a woman, of course, but I just can't help it. I—I—I'll never get this make-up right—the tears spill it as fast as I put it on. You see, my wife was my pal—always at my side, always sympathetic. I can't get used to her absence."

Human Fireflies. Surveyors of Chinese incense sticks may rejoice in the fact that each has a velvety orange Riverside drive, says the New York Press. It is the fashion for the young people who throng along the park wall and saunter up and down from the Schwab mansion to Grant's tomb to carry a handful of these sticks in their pockets. The incense is perfumed with this rich oriental odor. The fad started, of course, out of a crusade against the mosquitoes, which at times frequent the park. But now the mosquito is not content. The girls carry the incense sticks because the shrinking ladies add to the picturesqueness of the scene and because it has become a fad.

Dining Late and Long. In St. Albans Woods' early days, when the town was a quiet little hamlet, Lord Clarendon once told his maid of one occasion when he dined at a friend's villa near Putney and the maid didn't begin until eight o'clock. When they had eaten, rolled up in their coats and went to their room, Lord Clarendon found open his window and saw the haymakers coming into the field. "I wonder," he thought, "what hour they begin work." And on consulting his watch he found it was 8:30. The haymakers were returning to work from their breakfast.—Tribute.

Puzzle of Domestic. W. E. Murchison of Jonesboro enjoys the unique distinction of having lived in a house which he had never moved his residence only once.

That seems a puzzle, but it is quite simple. He was born and reared in Cumberland, and when Harnett was created out of Cumberland he found himself in a new country, and when he moved to Moore County, and when the county of Lee was formed a few months ago he found that he was some one's front yard—Wilbur D. Lee in his Evening Post.

Well Groomed England. England is a park. I do not remember who it was that wrote the poem containing words to the effect that he wanted to be in England when he died at a friend's villa near Putney and the maid didn't begin until eight o'clock. When they had eaten, rolled up in their coats and went to their room, Lord Clarendon found open his window and saw the haymakers coming into the field. "I wonder," he thought, "what hour they begin work." And on consulting his watch he found it was 8:30. The haymakers were returning to work from their breakfast.—Tribute.

Doubly Useful Mucilages.

"If you make your own mucilage (one) keeping teaspoonful of gum arable to an ordinary mucilage bottle give it at a cheaper rate than that you can buy it in the market," says the court plasters. "Gum or otherwise, except where an antiseptic is necessary," says Women's Home Companion.

"Ordinary cuts can be coated with a gauze as effective as a bandage," says the court plasters.

"Two coats thoroughly dried will stand the application of water better than anything but the adhesive plaster," says the court plasters.

"Today hands and head each other today is the sure road to contentment and happiness."

A Side Light.

The fortune teller, whose specialty was restoring lost and stolen articles by power of divination and spirit help, is perturbed.

She had missed a wallet full of bills and a diamond ring from her bureau drawer.

"Maria," she cried to her assistant, "have you taken the most effective means to get those articles back?"

"Yes," said Maria. "I reported it right off to the police."

Knew One of the Firm.

Attendant (showing him through the structure)—"This house is built on what is known as the 'slow combustion' plan."

"Mr. Neurisch, I have seen him at the club; but I have never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Buston."

Easy Way Out.

"That house I have taken from you," said the dissatisfied tenant, "is horrid, it is damp, it is cold, it is dirty, the middle of the room my hair blows all over my head. Can't you do something to the windows?"—Lippincott's.

"Don't you think, sir," replied the house agent, suavely, "it would be easier and cheaper for you to get your hair cut?"

TAXPAYER FEELS HIS DIGNITY.

Effect of Ownership of Property is to Make a Better Citizen.

"Many a time," said a policeman in the northern part of the city, "when arresting men, especially intoxicated men, I have been told by my prisoner that he was a taxpayer and that he had paid my taxes."

"I have heard of this sort of talk as merely drunken insolence, and never paid much attention to it until about a year ago, when I bought a house, and I am became myself a taxpayer. I had always been a taxpayer, but I had never thought of myself as one, and I have never thought of myself as a taxpayer."

He hitched himself up to a strap, turned his face to the side of his face and started to peruse the news of a busy and vexatious world without saying "action to nobody." He did not even look around.

USE LEAF AS A STIMULANT.

How Coca is Cultivated—Preventive of Sleep and Fatigue.

Coca is the South American invader. The shrub from which the coca leaves are obtained grows under favorable conditions to a height of about four feet. It is cultivated in Peru and Bolivia.

At the time the crop is gathered the seeds are sown in beds, when they germinate and grow, and in two months the growing plants reach a height of about a foot. The leaves, which are green, are harvested and shade, are yellowish, small and thick.

This is the kind of leaf that is preferred for chewing by persons using the leaf as a stimulant, further and permanent effects of chewing the permanent and vicious work, inasmuch as they prevent rheumatism, from which miners suffer when working in mines that contain much water. Indians who masticate the leaves of this plant can work 24 hours without sleep.

Coca leaves are used by the natives when engaged in long and fatiguing journeys and by soldiers when subject to hardships and privations. They may be used to help support the body, to support his share of the expense, makes him a better citizen. Habitual criminals, excepting, of course, high financiers are rarely taxpayers. They know that they will never come back, and they never come back, so they do not buy real estate, but are roomers and lodgers all their lives."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

FUN IS A VITAL NECESSITY.

Can by No Means Be Regarded as an Incidental of Life.

Most people have the impression that fun and humor are life incidentals, but that they are luxuries and have no great bearing upon one's career.

Many think of fun as frivolous, indicating lack of serious purpose. In life, there are parents who rebuke their children because they want to exist in the small space of territory between the cities of Leyden and Alkmaar.

What country is in reality the bottom of the old Hartmen which was laid dry about the year 1852 and the sea bottom, a combination of sand and decomposed vegetable and plants, appears to be the great part which fun and humor play in the physical economy, and their influence on the life.

What a complete revolution in your life would be if mental being became after seeing a really funny picture.

You went to the play tired, jaded, wornout, discouraged. All your mental faculties were clogged with brain ash; you could not think clearly. When you come home you were a being—Success Magazine.

Converted by Medicina.

A woman missionary, who was also a doctor, had a curious experience in Burnham, where, upon her arrival, she found a village community dying of life with cholera.

She had been to house-to-house inspection, administered a specific, and, having broken the back of the malady, left behind her several bottles of the medicine to be used during her absence. Upon her return the head man clapped his hand to her greeting:

"Thank you, we are coming to you to your side; the medicine did us so much good that we have accepted your God."

Now he is telling his friends how the boss, who never has been able to get the knobs out the English language, complimented him for his punctuality.

"Harry," said Mr. Schmitz, "I have noticed that you are early at late."

Stevens nodded and smiled at his employer continued:

"You were behind before. But now you are far ahead at last."

Bad, But True.

A preteenage son of five years looked very Phillipsian at his mother one day and remarked: "Isn't it wonderful how one's skin is put on? It is sewed together or pasted with glue?"

Realizing the folly of any physician who has ever been to him, he spread his face. Peering at his mother's forehead, he raised his finger and exclaimed: "Well, mother, I really have a sore on my forehead."

After the humor of the remark had passed it awakened a note of pathos, for that mother, with the aid of the mirror, discovered that the hitherto unobserved seam was there, her first wrinkle.

It was learned that most all the male members in the Coe settlement were to be away from home.

The officers rode to within a few hundred yards of the house and hitched their horses. They had hardly reached the spot when they came upon Andrews and his victim, whom he had begged to go squirrel hunting with him.

After killing Coe was put the body across their shoulder and run several hundred yards to their horses. They then put the body on two horses and rode five miles.

Detective Tom Pedigo, of Louisville, said that Andrews made the same deal with him as he also did with United States Marshal Jeff Cundiff to deliver Coe into their hands, but after all arrangements had been made Andrews failed to carry out his contract, giving as his excuse that his heart had failed him and that Jesse Coe had saved his life more than one time.

For a Sprained Ankle.

"Just think," said the sweet boy graduate, "I have secured a position already and the head of the firm has promised me money when I am well."

"Well, what of it?"

"I did not think there was that much money in the world."—Houston Post.

Women Inclined to Constipation

Women, owing to their peculiar functions, are prone to constipation, and many of their other ills are due to this condition. The bowel is the pump that purifies the blood and impure matter that passes through the system. The entire system is dependent upon the condition of the bowel.

MUST ATTEMPT TO FIND OWNER. Only Thing to Do When One Picks Up Lost Property.

When one is on the public thoroughfare or in the street car or train or boat, and finds an object that is valuable, is it his?

True, he may find something which is too small and trifling to warrant searching to find the owner, such as a handkerchief, a pair of gloves, etc., but when it is a valuable object, such as a watch, a diamond ring, etc., it is not his until he has done everything in his power to find the owner.

The street railways and trains are so systematic to that it is, when one finds an object of value, he returns it to the company's representative, it is almost sure to be returned to the owner. Every person of intelligence knows that the first place to inquire for it is at the lost and found department.

When, however, one is on the street and finds something which, if it is himself, he would very much like to have returned, there are the columns of a newspaper in which to advertise.

If he fails to find the owner after this then he can rightfully call it his own, and it is a good idea.

If he avoids looking over the lost and found columns and fails to do his part toward finding the owner he is almost as dishonest as if he took the goods.

TALISMANS POPULAR IN MALTA.

DEVOTION THAT WAS SUBLIME. Great Cook True to His Art to the Very End.

Escoffier, the great French cook, died at a dinner in New York that a good cook had the spirit of cookery born in him," said M. Escouffier, "and in him it never dies. His first lapsed hairy word is of food; and a sauce or a marinade is the subject of his last dying breath."

"Did you ever hear of poor Gaston Lippmann, the distinguished cook of Paillard's?"

"Gaston went on a voyage to the South Seas in '95; his ship was wrecked, and he and his party were captured by cannibals.

"Being placed in the same place as the ill-fated party to be consigned to the great iron casseroles.

NOT ALTOGETHER AN ACCIDENT.

Husband's Deep Scheme Revealed "In Strictest Confidence."

One Harlem, N. Y., matron was discussing with another Harlem matron the misfortune which she considered had befallen the husband of a third Harlem matron.

"You see," she said, "he went down to the steamer with a friend who was going abroad, and became so interested talking in the friend's cabin that he never noticed the warning whistle, and the steamer struck a rock.

However, he sent a Marconiogram to his wife, so she wouldn't worry.

I dare say he's been kicking himself about the ship ever since."

"Perhaps—and perhaps not," replied the second Harlem matron.

"He had a scheme in his head.

He told them they also that he intended to be carried off to Europe accidentally, because it was the only way he could go without taking his wife along. But for heaven's sake, don't mention the matter, my dear, because he told my husband in the strictest confidence!"

The Dog.

The dog is man's most faithful friend. A man may lie, but a dog won't; a man may get drunk, a man may slander his neighbor, a man may embezzle and defraud, a man may borrow and not pay back, a man may go into politics, a man may knife his best friend, a man may run people down with an automobile, a man may gamble himself to ruin, a man may waste his substance in a riotous life, a man may be inclined to heresy—but a dog won't. Can these things be truthfully spoken of other friends man has about him? There is a strong affinity between man and the dog. It must be the affinity of contrast. Yet any one can report being called a dog. Possibly the dog was not resenting being called a man if he understood—I do not know. I only know that the maxima works but one way; and if we would say: "Man is the dog's most faithful friend," there would be many a cay, this would be mighty rough on the dog.—Success confidence!

Quaint Fiji Plant.

There is nothing under the sun quite so quaint, so weird and wonderful as the pandanus prairies of Fiji. The pandanus, or screw plant, as it is called, is a most remarkable and singularly ugly-looking evergreen at the best and in the early stages of its growth. In its very young days it is of an extraordinary screw-like shape and looks as though some unkempt hand had taken a piece of wire and wound it around itself, then twisted and round. Later on it straightens out a bit and from it grow a number of tall wooden stilts. Its foliage is simple, a number of drooping, ragged tufts for the tree, like palm and very erratic looking. Among these the leaves hang the fruit, in shape like a pineapple, made up of hard red and yellow kernels, woody and fibrous, and quite inedible from a European's point of view.

A One-Sided View.

"A man is the God of the festive season," he remarked, "introduced a bill which provides that any man who has lived into marrying a woman who has by artificial means enhanced her beauty may, if he wishes, have the marriage declared null and void. That is to say, if the bridegroom discovers that his bride has had any operation, he goes to bed to hang any of her supposed charms from a chair he may consider himself free to wed again."

"And what about it?" asked the bridegroom. "After the ceremony the bridegroom wears a wig or does his make-up?"

"Any woman who is foolish enough not to know a wig or a dyed mustache when she sees one ought never to make any complaint about it."

His Vacation Method.

Miss F. C. Johnson, the writer of humorous advertisements, told a number of Duluth jewelers, at a recent jewelers' banquet, a good way to get off for a vacation without being missed from business.

"During the last Easter holidays," she said, "I met a jeweler at a social gathering.

"Why, I thought you were such a busy man," I said. "How do you manage your affairs down at the shore?"

"I told him, 'I am just keeping my advertisements out of the paper until my return, and so, you see, there are no affairs to manage!'"

Fresh Air.

I hold to the maxim "Die and let die." If any one chooses the fresh-air method of departing this life by all means let him take it, but let him respect the right of other people to have a quiet, comfortable life in their homes.

Fresh air has its victims, no less than foul. The tubercle bacillus does not enjoy fresh air, it is true, but there are plenty of other bacilli which rejoice in it. If consumptives thrive out of doors, the subjects of bronchitis are generally only safe when they stay in doors. J. H. Clarke, in London chronicled.

Expert Testimony.

A manufacturer, indicted that he knew a great deal about a moonshiner on trial in a Kentucky court, and thereby got free transportation to Louisville to testify for the state.

"What can you tell us about this man?" the judge asked.

"Well, he is a swell, swelling with importance," said the expert, riding along the road in the heat of a hot day on a racing pony, and waving of a flag and blowing of a horn; and I am him if that was a Blue Grass horse or a Chiltern breed, and he said it war."—Harper's Weekly.

Cough Up.

"For a room office is like a street car."

"How so?"

"Always room for one more."

"It also has the pay-as-you-enter feature,"—Kansas City Journal.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Methodist Sunday School will give a picnic to-morrow in the Woods on Levee pike.

Mrs. John S. Williams and Mrs. Robert Stoner gave a small garden party for Mrs. Reid Rogers on Wednesday of last week.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Roger Barnes entertained many friends at her home on North Mayville street. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, asters predominating. The guests were welcomed by Misses Ida Stewart, of Winchester, and Daisy Proctor, of this city, and ushered up stairs, where Misses Lucy Stewart, Richie Lane, of Winchester, and Paulina Judy and Julia Morris served tea. The table and tea bowl were attractively decorated. In the parlor Mrs. Barnes received, aided by her mother, Mrs. Stewart, of Winchester; Miss Katherine Sullivan, of Vicksburg; Mrs. James Ballard, of Bourbon; Miss Mary Lane, of Winchester; Mrs. Wm. Gordon, of Steele, N. D., and Mrs. T. K. Barnes. Assisting in the entertainment were Mesdames Jno. M. Barnes, Prewitt Young, Jno. G. Winn, H. B. Kinolving, Robt. Howell, James McNeil and Miss Fannie Tipton.

The dining room was very attractive, with Mesdames James Kennedy and Pierce Winn at the coffee table, while Mesdames Jno. A. Vansant, C. T. Turner and Miss Ella Proctor served the guests. Mints and nuts were passed by the little Misses Elizabeth Stewart, Ruth Barnes and Frances Vansant. Individual pieces, cakes, coffee and hot rolls were served. The favors, asters, were distributed by the little tots, Mary Agnes Gordon, Louise and Elizabeth Kelly Barnes. It was one of the largest and most elaborate receptions of the year, sustaining Mt. Sterling's reputation for elegant social events. The hostess, always gracious, was much congratulated upon the success of the event. Those from a distance not included in above list were Mesdames Joe Quisenberry, Woodson McCord, Leland Bush, John Johns, Bruce Duty, M. T. McElroy, of Winchester; Mrs. Frank Jagers, of New York, and Misses Kate Rash and Ennis Bush.

Fall styles Stetson and Youman Hats, complete in every detail.

PERIOD OF REST PROCLAIMED.

Absence of Light Regulates the Hours of Slumber.

If it were always daytime, we should never sleep. So says a scientist, according to Answers. There is no particular reason why we, or any other animal, should rest, on an average, eight hours a day.

The period of rest has been determined by the fact that eight hours is the average time when there is a lack of sufficient light to enable us to move.

This most fundamental distinction between night and day is wholly relative to the sense of sight. It only affects those types of life which have developed eyes.

Plants, being dependent for their growth upon the action of rays of sun-light which fall upon their leaves, have a wide distinction between day and night functions.

They eat and digest in the light, and grow during the hours of dark ness.

The lowest forms of animal life—the slightest denizens of ocean depths—do not rest at regular intervals. They live and work incessantly, taking the prey of the day and the shade when they rest; it is at irregular periods. In other words, they have no distinct periodicity of their own.

But as soon as eyes are developed, and in proportion to the size of the animal, it begins to divide the time into two main portions—a waking and a sleeping time. While there is light they perform all motive functions, when darkness comes they retire to rest or hibernate.

ARE MASTERS OF EVASIVENESS.

Bedouin's Answer Typical of the People of the East.

In the far east, when men congregate together, the evasion of duty is an answer. Riding down to Egypt over the old caravan route from Jerusalem to Cairo, Norman Duncan and a party pitched their tents outside a Bedouin village, and by an effort of imagination, against the law of hospitality, which the people so reluctantly maintain. Mr. Duncan, writing in Harper's Magazine, says that he was obliged to turn aside their reproaches—and avoid the about-face question, which were still being offered. "The man must be diverted. Ask him if the world is round or flat." The reply was a pure philosopher's jewel of the east. "The world is flat," came the response. Does it not, then, answer? "If it is round, it is God's wisdom." And the men softly applauded, in their pleasure forgetting their injury, forgetting everything except the joyous nature of craft.

The Inquisitive Man.

We paint as a test of human curiosity, has a first in the chewing gum slot. The apparatus at the One Hundred and Tenth street subway station was one of order the other morning. The first to notice the device, the last was a small boy with a yearning for gum. He confidently dropped a penny in the slot, but the toothsome wafer held coyly back. Repeated thumpings and shakings failed to induce it to appear. The boy, however, did not desist, was finally persuaded by his mother to go downtown without it. A dozen or more persons had witnessed his futile attempt to coax out a piece of gum, and they were in no wise deterred from making the same mistake. Evidently each thought his predecessor had not manipulated the machine properly, and that he could do better, for before the next express train came along five men who apparently had never known what chewing gum tasted like had succeeded pell-mell on the slot of their curiosity. An Ancient "Twopenny Tube."

A great tunnel which has lately been found at Gezer, in the land of the Philistines, was the scene of the ancient assembly of the annual meeting of the Palestine Exploration Fund. Prof. Merton, whose son has been making the excavations, said that the tunnel, which was made about 2000 B.C., is 100 feet long, 10 feet high, 5 feet wide, and 5 feet wide. It descends by 50 steps, the lowest of which is 100 feet below ground. It is the greatest engineering work that has been found in Palestine, and has excited the admiration of all who have seen it.—St. James' Gazette.

On Midsummer Eve.

In European countries, midsummer eve, June 23, is celebrated, and the blazing fires from the hilltops are supposed to typify rejoicing at the good luck of the summer. The summer-out fairies are kept to ward off evil for the coming year. The maiden gathers mistletoe with her left hand, and with it assures for herself her heart's desire. In this country the custom of the season is not considered worth a thought.

"The word 'grandma' is dying out," said a lexicographer, or maker of dictionaries, pausing in his labor on the letter G, in 1900, at this rate, no such word will exist."

"What will take its place?"

"Oh, 'nannie,' 'nann,' 'lovelocks,' 'dearest'—some such rubbish. You see, I used to be a grandmother."

"Women think that they have learned to stave off old age. A woman of 50, because she has dyed hair, a painted face, a figure here distended and there swamped, thinks that she is young. As a matter of fact, she looks neither fish, nor fowl. No man can bear the sight of her. But she thinks she looks young, and, therefore, she won't be called 'grandma.' Youth is for good, you know."

LET THE CLOUDS BLOW OVER.

"Absence Cure" Works Wonders in Cases of Conjugal Jaws.

When symptoms set in of an outbreak of conjugal jaws, the best recommended remedies in the best recommended families is a capital plan for husband or wife to go off on a solitary holiday for a few days, to let the clouds blow over.

If two persons start lancing and snipping at one another's nerves, an "absence cure" works wonders. Both have time for reflection and repose.

So if you and the husband are irritating one another like mad, make yourselves go and stop a week with friends.

Don't discuss your grievances with the hostess; calm down, forgive and forget, and stay away till you can return to love again.

Short time ago taken at the right moment, would save thousands of hot-tempered young couples from drifting to the ranks of the "unhappily married."

Pennsylvania Nature Story.

Six weeks ago a workman in the Pennsylvania resort shape in Allegheny towed two dozen eggs in an abandoned tool box in the roundhouse. Steam pipes through the box. All over the eggs a heavy layer of coal smoke settled.

Three weeks ago 140 young chicks arrived. It was found that the steam pipes kept the temperature of the box at 103 degrees. A second batch of 20 chicks followed, and another, which is being prepared.

Now among the chattering noises of the roundhouse, every chick so far covered is deaf.—Philadelphia Record.

A dozen or more girls got out of their cars once and it was the first time they'd ever been away from the white lights. Well, she wanted to go out and gather nuts—at this time of the year. WASHINGTON

Has No Sympathy For Assassins of Women, But Pleads for Christian Civilization.

The New York World prints a signed statement from Booker T. Washington, in which the eminent Negro educator comments at length upon recent lynchings. In his statement Mr. Washington says:

"Within the past sixty days twenty-five Negroes have been lynched in different parts of the United States." Of this number only four of the twenty-five were even charged with criminal assault upon women. How long can our Christian civilization stand this?

I am making no special plea for the Negro, innocent or guilty, but I am calling attention to the danger that threatens our civilization.

"For the Negro criminal, and especially for the Negro brawler, gambler and drunkard, I have nothing but the severest condemnation, and no legal punishment is too severe for the brute that asaults a woman.

"No doubt the people who engage in lynchings, and excuse them, believe that they will have the effect of striking terror to the guilty. But who shall say whether the persons lynched are guilty?

That is what courts are for. Those who have examined into the facts know only too well that in the wild justice of the mob it is frequently the innocent man who is executed. Mob justice undermines the very foundation upon which our civilization rests, viz., respect for the law and confidence of its security. There are, in my opinion two, remedies.

"First of all, let us unite in a determined effort everywhere to see that the law is enforced; that all people at all times and all places see that the man charged with a crime is given a fair trial.

"Second—Let all good citizens unite in an effort to rid the communities, especially the large cities of the idle, vicious and gambling element.

"And in this connection it would not be just and would not be frank unless I stated that the better of the black race could use their influence, especially in the cities, to see that the idle element that lives by its wits without permanent or reliable occupation or place of abode is either reformed or gotten rid of in some manner. In most cases it is this element that furnishes the power of these plagues."

The Governor's Remedy.

The pride of every citizen in Kentucky should be humbled to the dust by a perusal of Gov. Wilson's statement with regard to the notorious condition of affairs in Bracken county. It is going very far indeed for a Governor to advise citizens to get their rifles down from the racks above their doors and defend their homes from laws, with the assurance that they will not be punished by the State if they succeed in killing the destroyer of personal liberty and private property.

Only once in the history of the State has a governor gone so far as to suggest that the time had come when the only means of overthrowing the hoodlum element controlling the courts and terrorizing honest men, was for honest men to arm and shoot to kill. That suggestion was made privately. How it was carried out is a matter of history (in the extermination of the Craig Tolliver clan at Morehead.—Ed.)

Gov. Willson does not go farther than to urge self-defense. This may possible result in benefits to the State, as it is a service of notice upon county governments that if they can prostitute their offices to save night riders from just punishment they can at least be prevented from using the courts to inflict unjust punishment upon citizens who defend their homes against night riders.

It is unfortunate and disgraceful that it has become necessary for the Governor of a State in a civilized country to issue such a proclamation, and its issuance is not unattended by the risk of disorder resulting from the acts of persons seeking to take improper advantage of it, but in the circumstances it rests with county officers to begin at the eleventh hour to discharge their duties, or to shoulder responsibility for what may occur as a result of their continued declination to regard their oaths of office. Certainly in the advance of protection by the constituted authorities every citizen is fully justified in protecting himself and his home.—Courier-Journal.

Willson, that the County Judge and County Attorney of Bracken county have failed to do their duty as officers of said county is false and has not a word of truth in it. That they have been ready, able and willing, at all times, to do their duty."

Rev. Thomas N. Arnold Died Suddenly on Way to Preach Funeral.

Rev. Thomas N. Arnold, one of the best known ministers of the Christian Church of the South, died suddenly at Frankfort, Aug. 24.

Mr. Arnold ran to catch a street car to go to Versailles to conduct a funeral. The exertion was too much for him, as he was 84 years of age. When the Feeble Minded Institute was reached he got off, and stumbling up to the porch, asked Dr. Bailey to let him rest. He was given a chair, when immediately he exclaimed, "Oh, Lord!" His head fell forward and he was gone.

Rev. Mr. Arnold was educated at Maysville and was a classmate there of President U. S. Grant.

Editors of every Democratic and Independent newspaper throughout the United States will be appealed to by the Democratic National Committee to start subscriptions for the Democratic campaign fund in their newspapers.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you my experience on an east-bound O. R. & N. R. R. train from Pendleton to Le Grande, Ore., writes Sam A. Gardner, a well known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said: 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car.' I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic; her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a death like look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her, and giving her whiskey. I went to my coat and case and got my bottle of Colic, Shampoo and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another should be needed, but by the time the train ran into Le Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car."
